U-Save gets OK from city for expansion plans

BELLE GLADE-City Commissioners gave tentative approval to proposed expansion of the U-Save Supermarket along Southeast Avenue E Monday night.

An ordinance adopted on first reading by the commission gives approval for rezoning the property at 548-560 S.E. Ave. E from residential to business.

Remar Harvin, director of planning and community development, said property owners in the affected area did not voice any disapproval of the proposed rezoning.

U-Save owner Roy Burch plans to expand the building which was damaged in an Oct. 2 fire.

Burch told the commission that he spoke with residents in the area and agreed to build a barrier separating the business from adjacent homes. He said they seemed to favor a concrete wall barrier.

City zoning codes require that a six-foot barrier must exist between commercial and residential properties. That barrier can be a

Self-insurance could save Glades General $1 million a year

BELLE GLADE-Glades General Hospital's Board of Directors could save as much as $1 million a year through a decision they expect to make in a special meeting to be held this coming Monday evening.

Hospital administrator Patrick Lennon informed the board Tuesday night, Nov. 26, that by using sovereign immunity, the hospital would be able to set up a fund of $20,000 a month to provide payment of professional and general liability insurance claims.

A second fund of $2,000-$3,000 a month would also be established for legal expenses. Under this self-insurance plan, board members will decide, along with legal counsel, whether to settle claims out-of-court or have them arbitrated in court.

By claiming sovereign immunity, a protection allowed tax-supported hospitals, Glades General would not have to pay more than $200,000 per occurrence, or more than $100,000 per person.

The projected cost for the first year is between $254,000-$276,000.

Lennon said the fund can be capped and the $20,000 a month can be discontinued, but the figures are not available yet as to establish the amount.

Board members agreed to the plan's concept, but moved to hold another meeting at 7 p.m. Monday when plans would be presented in concrete form.

Bonnie Sonneborn, an attorney for the hospital, will be present for legal counsel.

If the motion to switch to self-insurance should pass, the fund will be set up beginning Dec. 7. The hospital's present policy expires

Dec. 6.

Under the existing coverage, the hospital is not protected for claims made after the policy expires, but arising out of cases occurring this year.

This year's coverage cost the hospital $232,000, but for continued protection next

Farm bill moves closer to passage

The U.S. Senate passed its version of a 1985 farm bill Saturday which includes a continuation of the sugar loan program vital to area sugar cane producers.

Compromise between farm state Democrats and Senate Republican leaders on provisions to soften future income subsidy cuts ended a stalemate that had resulted in a five-day marathon session.

The 61-28 vote, that included votes for the bill from both Florida Senators Lawton Chiles (D) and Paula Hawkins (R), culminated more than a month of often acrimonious debate.

"We're very pleased with the Senate version of the farm bill," said Florida Sugar Cane League executive vice-president Dalton Yancey. "This was even better than we were looking for."

Under the Senate version, the Commodity Credit Corporation-run sugar loan program would continue at its present 18 cents a pound rate beginning in 1986 and continuing through the year 2000.

Under the bill, it would be illegal for the United States Department of Agriculture to acquire sugar in lieu of loan payments and would insure that the program will operate at no cost to the USDA.

Those requirements would prevent a situa-

Old city hall is condemned, but not lost

BELLE GLADE-City Hall has condemned City Hall.

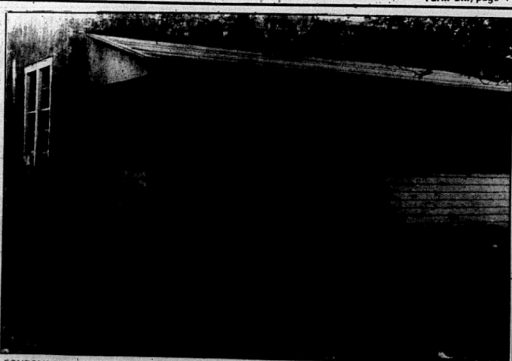

No, you did not read wrong. Building inspectors, acting on orders from Remar Harvin, Belle Glade's director of planning and community development, went to City Hall Friday morning and placed a square red condemnation notice, effectively sealing the building.

The City Hall in question is the one at 824 N.W. Ave. B, where the legend over the door of the crumbling ramshackle building identifies it as the city's original governmental building, dating back to 1929.

The structure is now owned by Gary Gogins, Harvin said, and has been used for the past several years as a rental unit. It has been too dangerous for habitation for some time, he added.

"When it's vacant, you don't have the same concerns as when it's occupied," Harvin said, noting that relocation is a primary concern.

When the family who had been living there moved out Friday, it cleared the way for the

Glades insurance agent to run for state house seat vacated by Watt

Belle Glade insurance agent Gene Badger announced he will be a candidate for the District 81 Florida House Representative seat in the election next fall.

"For many years I have had the opportunity to work with others who have been candidates and to take an active role in many of Florida's critical issues," said the 57-year-old insurance executive.

"Now I believe it is time for me to place myself in the active political arena as a candidate," said Badger, a Republican.

"The district Badger seeks to represent in the Florida legislature spans Palm Beach County from Lake Okeechobee to the west to the Atlantic Ocean and includes much of the county's richest agriculture as well as a rapidly growing urban area of Palm Beach Gardens, part of Lake Park and the northern section of Singer Island to the east.

"The widely diverse interests of the legislative district demand the attention of someone who is experienced in both areas," said Badger, who formally filed his campaign papers in Tallahassee earlier this month.

"With my business interests in Belle Glade and my residence in Palm Beach Gardens, I travel the length of the legislative district daily and I have an intense awareness of the problems, goals and desires of both areas."

"I believe both areas share much more in common than in differences and it is to those common goals that I will dedicate my service in Tallahassee," Badger said.

Badger is owner of an independent insurance agency in Belle Glade.

He and his wife, Irma, are the parents of four daughters.

A native Floridian, Badger was born in Hastings and is a graduate of the University of Florida. Three of the Badgers' daughters are graduates of the University of Florida and the fourth is a member of the Class of 1986.

The legislative seat Badger is seeking is currently held by Republican James Watt, who is running for state attorney general. It is not the first election for Badger. He was elected to the Putnam County, Fla., school board in 1982.

A veteran of the US Marines with service in the Korean conflict, Badger has been a classroom school teacher, a poultry farmer in North Florida, a farming supply and feed salesman and was the area manager for Florida Farm Bureau Insurance at Belle Glade before founding his own company.

Badger completed the American College program and is a Charter Life Underwriter in the insurance industry, a member of the Florida Association of Insurance Agents and the Association of Professional Insurance Agents.

The candidate is a Mason, a member of Amara Shrine Temple of Palm Beach Gardens and a member of the Rotary Club since 1949. He and his family are members of the Trinity United Methodist Church near their Palm Beach Gardens home.

The first election for Badger is the statewide primary next Sept. 2.

Dentist given probation may still face disciplinary action from governing board

BELLE GLADE—Dr. Rene Alvarez, a Belle Glade dentist fined and placed on two years probation in July after pleading no contest to a charge of making a false and fraudulent insurance claim, still stands a chance of losing his license, according to one state official.

Alvarez, who has an office at 141 S. Main St., faces administrative charges from the Florida Department of Professional Regulation.

Julie Gallagher, a staff attorney with the department, said a six count complaint was filed against Alvarez on Oct. 30. The complaint charges the dentist with 16 violations of the dental practice act, involving fraudulent insurance claims. Gallagher said Alvarez has until Dec. 2 to respond to a certified letter sent informing him of the action.

She said the charges go against the dentist's license and could lead to any number of possible disciplinary actions, ranging from a fine up to revocation of his license.

Gallagher said her agency, which governs 27 different professions in the state, investigates complaints filed with it. In Alvarez's case, she said, the administrative charges stemmed from criminal charges filed by Palm Beach County sheriff's detectives Jan. 9.

Gallagher said the dentist's options for responding to the charges include requesting a formal hearing to dispute the charges, going before the state board of dentistry to explain his actions, or simply not reply, which has been Alvarez's course of action to this point.

Gallagher explained that if Alvarez opts for a hearing, it would be held before a state administrative hearing officer, who would relay his findings to the board of dentistry. They would have the final decision in any case, she said.

Alvarez was charged with three counts of making false and fraudulent insurance claims and six counts of grand theft.

He pleaded no contest to one count of making false and fraudulent insurance claims and, in return, the state attorney's office dropped the other charges.

County Judge Don Adams sentenced Alvarez to pay a $3,000 fine and pay $1,787 in restitution to Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. and to serve two years' probation.

Adams placed a stipulation on the sentence, saying probation would end when restitution was paid. He withheld adjudication to prevent giving Alvarez a felony record.

Gallagher said five counts of the administrative charges stem from claims allegedly made on five patients and constitute three violations each. The sixth count was for being charged and sentenced in the criminal action, for the total of 16 violations.

Gallagher said fraudulent insurance claims make up 20 percent of her department's case load involving dentists.

"While it's not our biggest problem, it isn't an uncommon one. Dr. Alvarez is certainly not the first dentist accused of making false insurance claims," she said.

IRS reminds residents tax time is approaching

The Internal Revenue Service is reminding Floridians that 1985 federal income tax form packages will be mailed by late December to nearly five million taxpayers throughout the state.

The 1985 forms will not be available at local IRS offices or through the toll-free tax forms number until January of next year.

Taxpayers who have not received their tax packages by Jan. 13, 1986, should contact their local IRS office.

County farm bureau selects new officers

The Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau board of directors met Nov. 11 and elected officers for the 1985-86 year. Robert Stokes, who has served as the Farm Bureau's president for the past 14 years, nominated Rich Roth to serve as the new president, and Roth was elected unanimously.

Turkey day is at hand

Can we talk here?
I am a very "fable" person, but some of you are starting to push me to the brink of becoming grouchy and mean.
The people I refer to are the ones who keep poking fun at my car.
I can't help it if half of my old Chevy is eaten away with cancer. That is beyond my control as I have yet to find someone to fix it for nothing.
I asked a friend of mine who does body work on automobiles if he could fix it and I was less than encouraged when he said, "Get serious."
"You have a bit of a rust problem, don't you?" asked one man who was so observant to notice half the back end of my car is eaten away.
"Now, those holes are there to ventilate the trunk," I replied.

Look, I can't help it if my door won't close or if my rear view mirror falls off when I slam the door that won't close, or that the power steering growls like a starving grizzly.
Nor can I do much about my squeaking brakes.

Neither can I help it if, when it rains, you get wetter inside than you will standing outside.
It's like I always say, at least the car's paid for.

Waylon summed up my car when he sang "I may be worn, but I'm not worn out."

A Palm Beach County detective couldn't resist temptation to ridicule my "ride."
"Man, you need to get you a car that fits your style," he said.

"I got one! The red matches my eyes, and the rust represents the lines on my face," I said.

"As long as 'Big Red' keeps running, I'll keep driving it."

Now on to more important business.

It's "TURKEY DAY!"
Turkey day is my favorite time of the year. I can eat all the mashed potatoes I want too and no one calls me a pig, even though I am pigging out.

"Turkey day is that time of year when everyone makes a glutton out of themselves. Not only do we pig out on food, and football, but swallow a large amount of anticid tablets."

Unfortunately I will not be enjoying the warm Florida sunshine this Thanksgiving.
I'll be on my honeymoon in Kansas. (Talk about a glutton! I'm a real glutton for punishment. Here I go again, making rich lawyers richer) spending the holiday with my father.

He was nice enough to call me Tuesday and inform me the high temperature for that day was 20 degrees.

That was so nice of him. I can't tell you how thrilled I was to hear that weather report.

He does that on purpose trying to make me homesick. I just can't get it through his head how proud I am he's there and I'm here.

My fiancée just can't wait to get there. She's hoping to see snow for the first time.

I hope she does. The problem is she'll be seeing it alone 'cause this kid ain't hanging around.

I've warned her how cold it is up there and that she had better take some warm clothes. That was a serious mistake.

After seeing the suitcase she's planning on taking, we're going to need a U-Haul. It'll take three men and two good boys just to lift the thing.

"We're only going to be gone a week. You're packing like we're taking an extended vacation to Botswana or something," I said.

"I just wanna be prepared," she replied.
"Well, let me ask you this, are you prepared to pamper my hernia when I try to tote that thing?" I asked.

While away, I plan to OD on mashed potatoes, banana pie and football. What she's going to do I don't know.

I still think she should bring to clean my trailer and catch up my washing and ironing while her brother and I go up there bird hunting.

For some reason she won't hear of it. I see I have my work cut out for me in breaking her in.

"Why in the world do you want to get married again," a friend asked.

"There's a couple of reasons. First, I'm running out of clean and almost clean clothes. Secondly, I'm running out of ideas for my column and I figure by getting married I'll get plenty of good ones," I replied.

One of my co-workers made the statement that since I'll be living in wedded bliss there'll be no more columns knocking the female of the species.

"You crazy! I'll have more ammunition than ever now," I said.
Anyway, I hope all of you have a good turkey day, and if you are so inclined you may send your cards of condolence to me in care of the Belle Glade Herald.

What is GIFT?

Glades Informed Families Together (GIFT), is a community effort to coordinate drug awareness and prevention through education of parents, children, school faculty members, or any group or organization that wants our help.

As parents, and concerned citizens, we know that attention to the issues surrounding drug and alcohol abuse is imperative. We all need to know the cost and consequences of chemical abuse. We also do not have to venture too far from our immediate circle of friends or relatives to have knowledge of the effects of chemical abuse.

We believe the only realistic approach toward resolving the problem of alcohol and drug abuse by our youth, is through the education of both parents and children as

Chamber secretary restates reasons for resigning

Dear Editor:

I deeply regret that the announcement and statements concerning my resignation as the Executive Secretary of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce was only quoted in part by the local newspaper reporters.

The welfare of the Chamber has always been my first concern since the day I took the job. I was aware that the job came without benefits, but I thought that we could build the membership and raise the budget level so that some of these benefits could be offered at a later date.

Although my dreams were not fulfilled concerning the Chamber, budget of membership, I have enjoyed almost every moment of my tenure with the Chamber. This has been made possible by the "Super" people in the community, and the visitors stopping by to inquire about our city.

They were told how fortunate the citizens in this area are, to live in Western Palm Beach County, Belle Glade, Florida where we could survive on its own resources, if the need arises.

We also mentioned that we had "hidden treasures" in our community. People that care about each other and are willing to lend a helping hand when the occasion presented itself. Money can not buy this type of compassion and it is very rare in our world of today.

We are also aware that we have the most beautiful and modern Chamber of Commerce Building within the State of Florida but the Chamber must have the support of the community and the city to operate properly.

The Chamber has less than half of the small businesses within the city supporting the Chamber of Commerce. The Board of Directors held different fund raising projects last year that contributed over $13,000.00 but these opportunities do not present themselves often enough to fill a void in the budget.

So, my friends I can only say that maybe I am overly concerned about the Chamber and the welfare of our community, but with the adverse publicity that is destroying our community, I feel we need all the support that we can get to help take some positive steps to counter-act these attacks by the news media.

A new Secretary in the Chamber just might be able to make my dreams come true. I never raised the flag above the Chamber without saying a prayer of Thanksgiving.

Respectfully,
Jewel A. Crane

MS Society stresses that disease is not infectious

To the Editor:

In the course of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's forty years of providing education, services and research on multiple sclerosis, we have come across no evidence that multiple sclerosis is a transmissible infectious disease.

Recently the Miami Herald ran stories on the possibility that multiple sclerosis may be an infectious disease transmitted by prolonged personal contact. The Miami Herald's conclusions are probably a concern for you and all Florida residents.

Medical researchers investigating the possible cause of multiple sclerosis and documenting their studies up to this point have not found convincing evidence of a transmissible infectious disease anywhere in the world.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society welcomes all scientifically valid research that would help to discover the cause(s) of multiple sclerosis. And currently there are many unresolved questions regarding the unusual cluster of people with multiple sclerosis in the Key West area.

But to conclude, as the Miami Herald did, that MS might be an infectious disease frightens people without scientific basis. Though the Herald's "data" was analyzed by an epidemiologist, we are unaware of participation by medical research experts and/or multiple sclerosis experts at any point in the development of the newspaper's project.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society Vice President, John P. Donnelly, Public Affairs

the public in visiting Key West or Florida Keys Memorial Hospital. Above all, there should be no undue concern on the part of Florida residents about associating with people who have multiple sclerosis.

If you have any questions regarding multiple sclerosis, contact your local Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Sincerely,
John P. Donnelly,
Vice President,
Public Affairs

A contract was let for F.E.C. Railroad to construct 14 miles of track from Canal Point to Chosen Canal.

Albert Erickson, who had a farm a mile north of Canal Point, bought lots 29 and 30 in block 11 of the Pioneer Investment Company subdivision of the Canal Point townsite and was to build a house costing between $4,000 and $5,000. Community business leaders find out about 'team learning' efforts SOUTH BAY Community business leaders may have been surprised and a little apprehensive when asked to participate in a test during a program held at Rosenwald Elementary School during American Education Week.

Assistant Principal Lin McCabe demonstrated cooperative team learning to a group of about 30 adults last Friday by asking them to participate in a team effort approach to learning. McCabe said the technique is used at Rosenwald to teach social studies. "This approach teaches students how to be good team members. It teaches the team spirit and working together," McCabe said.

She said, "I don't know if you remember as a child how important it was for someone to listen to what you had to say, but in cooperative team learning every person is important."

"The grade's fine, but the learning and working together is more important," McCabe said in describing the system.

Principal Earlyene Harrell expressed her gratitude to the group for attending and said it was typical of the response she has gotten from the community.

"I don't think we have ever done anything at the school that you haven't supported. We have good parent support also," Harrell said.

She said that when she first came to Rosenwald as principal, her first three months were spent disciplining children. "I had more children in my office because of fighting, or because a child had said things they shouldn't have," Harrell said. "We started an assertive discipline and we got the parents involved," she said.

Harrell said she called parents at their job from teaching or a student from learning," Buchanan said. "That is the basics of assertive training."

Harrell said they were excited about the way the system has been working at Rosenwald Elementary. "It is our goal to have the best year ever. In order to do that, we need each other," she said.

In addition to the group participation testing, which stopped just short of the test, the business people were treated to a meal of country-fried chicken and all the trimmings.

They were also entertained by first grade students who sang several songs including "Going Out on the Town."

A tour of the school was also provided by "guide students" who were told to converse with the adult they were guiding by finding out some of the background on the person and describing some of the areas they were shown.

Harrell outlined some of the things the school would be starting to the group. She said they were starting "Mothers on Patrol" which will involve the parents in helping with school traffic patrol in the afternoon.

"We are also going to encourage the businesses in town to not allow children in their stores during school hours," Harrell said. She said she hopes some of the new programs will benefit the school.

Raiders clean house in 'Muck Bowl,' whip Blue Devils 29-12

By ERIC KOPP

PAHOKEE—The Glades Central Raiders and Pahokee Blue Devils squared off in the 1985 "Muck Bowl" with the Raiders claiming a 29-12 victory in a game marred by a bench-clearing brawl that left four players ejected from the contest.

The Raiders had the "hoses" but Pahokee didn't have the saddles as the Raiders capitalized on early mistakes to mount a 21-4 halftime bulge.

On the opening offensive play for the Blue Devils, quarterback Pernell McKelton tried to throw a short swing pass to Alphonso Smith on their own 20, but the pass was intercepted by Raider defensive end Eugene Lawson and returned to the Pahokee 6.

Raider quarterback Jimmy Spencer ran the ball in on their first play from scrimmage to give the Raiders a 6-0 lead with just :38 seconds gone in the first stanza.

The point after was kicked by Mike Smith. On the Blue Devils next possession the Raiders held and forced Pahokee to punt from their own 18.

Darrell Sanders called for a fair catch and the Raiders took over first and ten on the Pahokee 41.

On the first play of their possession Spencer threw a 32 yard reception to Sanders that gave the Raiders a first and ten on the Blue Devils 9. Raider running back Gary Burke took the handoff from Spencer and picked up 5 yards to the Pahokee 4.

On second and four Pahokee was whistled for an offside infraction, which gave the Raiders second and goal to go.

Spencer carried the ball in from the 2 and Smith added the extra point to give the Raiders a 14-0 lead with 7:48 left in the first quarter.

Pahokee took the ensuing kickoff and picked up two straight first downs until a fumble by McKelton was recovered by Raider linebacker Jimmy Webb on the Blue Devils' 40.

On first down Burke was thrown for a 2 yard loss by Pahokee defensive tackle Curtis Smith.

Pahokee's Pernell McKelton blew in from his cornerback position to toss Raider tight end, Jimmy Perkins, for a 1 yard loss after his reception of a Spencer pass.

With third and thirteen, Spencer dropped back and threw a 43 yard touchdown strike to Perkins. The extra point was added by Smith and gave the Raiders a 21-0 lead with 3:00 left in the first quarter.

The Raiders got another break on Pahokee's next possession as Roosevelt Shelby recovered the fumbled kick off on the Pahokee 26.

But, the Blue Devil defense forced a turn over of their own as middle linebacker Pell Thompson intercepted a Spencer pass on the Pahokee 21 yard line.

Pahokee took over on their 21 and on the first play from scrimmage Glades Central was tagged with an offside call giving the Blue Devils a first and five.

The Blue Devils picked up 2, then on second and three were flagged for illegal motion giving them a second and eight on the 23.

McKelton and wide receiver Reggie Mickens teamed up on a 74 yard pass play to give the Blue Devils a first and goal on the Raiders' 3 yard line.

Alphonso Smith picked up 1, leaving Pahokee a second and goal from the two as the quarter ended.

The Raider defense stiffened, and the Blue Devils failed to reach the endzone and the Raiders took over on their own 1 yard line.

Pahokee finally lit up the numbers on their side of the scoreboard as Glades Central's Sanders was caught in the endzone for a safety making the score 21-2 with 11:08 left in the half.

The teams fought, back and forth with neither mounting a drive until with 10 seconds left, the Raiders' punter fumbled a low snap in the endzone and was tackled by the Blue Devils charge to give them another safety narrowing the bulge to 21-4.

On the kick off that followed tensions flared and a fight erupted on the Pahokee 35 that cleared both benches.

After a 10-15 minute delay following the melee, head official Philip Wilson called an end to the half with 38 seconds left.

"We called the half to give the players time to cool off and warned the coaching staff if there is another outbreak such as this the game will be forfeited," said Wilson.

When the second half began Wilson said two players from each squad had been ejected and that no penalties would be assessed as they would offset each other.

On their first possession of the second half Pahokee mounted a 65 yard touchdown drive. Alphonso Smith added a two point conversion to narrow the gap to 21-12 with 7:32 left in the third quarter.

Glades Central took the kick off on their 17 and moved the ball to the Pahokee 44 where the drive stalled and they were forced to punt.

On the punt Pahokee defensive tackle Curtis Smith was called for roughing the kicker, breathing new life into the Raiders.

With a first and ten from the Pahokee 29, Smith intercepted a Spencer pass and the Blue Devils took over on their own 5.

Pahokee moved to their own 19 where they were stopped and forced to punt.

The punt was blocked and recovered on the Blue Devils' 11 by Glades Central's Anthony Burden.

The Raiders took over first and ten. On first down the give was to Sanders who carried to the 1 yard line.

Spencer then called his own number and scored on a quarterback sneak. Spencer also scored a two-point conversion to give the Raiders a 29-12 lead with :07 seconds left in the third signaling the end to the scoring for the evening.

An elated Dan Brown, head coach for the Raiders, said his team finally played up to their capabilities.

"We played like a Raider football team is supposed to play tonight. We controlled every phase of the game," he said.

On the other side of the field a dejected Don Thompson, Blue Devil head mentor, couldn't figure out what happened to his team.

"They (the Raiders) were super aggressive and really took it to us. I don't know what happened to us, we just seemed flat. But it's like I said earlier in the week, I can't understand how they ever lost a game this year."

"They're a very good football team," Thompson said.

Thompson's next task is preparing his squad for Monday night's play off in Immokalee, against either Immokalee or Bishop Verot.

"I think we'll be ready. We're just going to have to wait and see how badly we're banged up. The kids will be ready. You can be sure of that," he said.

Kick off for the Immokalee-Bishop Verot contest is slated for an 8:00 p.m. start, with Pahokee to face the winner.

Woman facing concealed weapon charge

BELLE GLADE—A Belle Glade woman was arrested by police on charges of carrying a concealed firearm after she allegedly threatened a man in the parking lot at 301 N. Main Street.

Belle Glade Detective L. D. Grieve said Sheri Lynn McDonald was arrested Tuesday in connection with the incident after she was stopped by Patrolman Lionel Buda and a 38 cal handgun was found hidden under the driver's seat.

According to police reports, Buda was stopped while on patrol by Ali Nasser, who said a woman in a black and silver Bronco had just pulled a gun and reportedly threatened to "blow his brains out."

Parent awareness group targets drugs

A parent awareness group focusing its attention on education of the community regarding drugs and alcohol and drug use and abuse by our youth met Tuesday, Nov. 19 at the Loula V Yourk Library in Pahokee.

Forty-five concerned parents and citizens showed their support and concern by attending to hear Joe Corovano, Drug Rehabilitation Counselor expressed the need for such a parent prevention group in our area.

He said informed parents were the key to helping prevent their children from becoming drug abusers. He said that most men in his program told him that their parents were so misinformed about drugs and could give them no help on the subject.

According to Corovano, being alert to what your child is doing, saying and who the peer group is, is one of the greatest needs parents have today.

He said as parents, our lack of information about drugs is one of the contributing factors to the upswing in drug usage by our young people.

Mickie Griffis, founder of G.I.F.T. (Glades Informed Families Together) presented the aims, purposes and goals of the organization. The primary purpose is to educate parents and the community to the hazards of chemical use and abuse, with a community effort to coordinate programs on drug awareness to any group, organization, school, industry that wants the organization help.

Alice Thompson, one of the co-founders presented what impact G.I.F.T. could have on the community and how each person is directly or indirectly affected by drug use.

Judy Griffis, co-founder, stated that G.I.F.T. is a member of the National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth and that the group has applied for membership in the Florida Informed Parent Organization and gave a little background on the parent movement in the nation.

She said there are over 7,000 such groups all over the country. These groups are making a tremendous difference in changing the attitudes to do drugs in our youth peer groups, according to Griffis.

The next meeting of the organization is scheduled for December 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Loula V Yourk Library, Pahokee.

Steve Haller of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department will inform parents of the need of awareness and tell them and show them what drugs their children are experimenting with and what the problem is in the Glades Area.

The meeting is a workshop open to all interested parents who are willing to help put a stop to drug use among our young people and want to work toward this goal.

G.I.F.T. would like to express their thanks to Pahokee Thriftway and Pahokee Foodway for covering the cost of the 3,000 pamphlets which were printed.

"What Parents Need to Know About Cocaine, Marijuana and Teenage Alcohol and Driving."

The pamphlets are free and available to any parent wanting this information, according to Griffis.

Thanksgiving is here and the time has come for all of us to give thanks for the many blessings we have received over the past year.

With report cards arriving this week, a lot of students might need to be reminded that they still have reason to be thankful.

The Mighty Gator football team celebrated its 100th win last Friday night with a 47-0 win over Melbourne Central Catholic. Congratulations, guys, you make us proud to be Gators.

Yearbook sales have been underway all week long at GDS and the staff promises that the '86 Gator will be the best yet. Already a lot of us are anxious to see ourselves and look-back on moments that were special this year. Yearbooks should be arriving the first week in May.

A safety fair was held at Glades Day this week which gave students the opportunity to see different aspects of the police department.

Slide shows were seen on the danger of drinking and driving, 'g abuse, and on the crime watch program.

A canine and equestrian show was also presented and when those dogs demonstrated crowd control on our Gator football team, those boys met a defensive line like they had never seen before.

My favorite, though, was a contraption called The Convincer which simulates an automobile accident at 10 m.p.h. After signing a release form, you are strapped into a seat and let down an incline.

What a jolt that thing gives! I'm not saying anything except I pray I never get in a wreck! Hopefully this will remind students of the importance of seat belts.

The football team plays at home this Friday night in their quest for the region 4 title. The Gators go up against Plantation American Heritage.

Come on, boys, we are looking for a win. Finally, I'd like to wish a final "Happy Thanksgiving" to everyone. Hope your day is wonderful and is spent with those you love! That will surely make it special!

THE INTERNATIONAL CLUB from Glades Central High enjoyed the food of the Heritage Festival, but seemed to prefer good old pizza donated by Pizza Hut to the more exotic foods.

Heritage Day festival well enjoyed

By BRENDA BUNTING
BELLE GLADE—Food, music and fellowship were the highlights of the second annual Heritage Day Saturday, Nov. 23 at Airport Park.

An estimated 125 attended the celebration, according to NOAH (Neighbors Organized for Adequate Housing) Administrative Assistant Doug Graber.

The event, sponsored by NOAH, drew fewer participants this year than last according to Graber, but he said he was pleased because more of the people from the community participated.

"It was a nice mixture of different ethnic groups from the community this year," Graber said. He said ethnic groups from the Jamaican, Haitian, Arabic, Anglo-Saxon, American Black and Spanish community were represented.

Some of the events during the day included a flag raising ceremony and guitar playing and singing by Dan McDonald of Lantana and Ken Crafford of Stuart.

A drawing was held for a trip for two to the Bahamas. The trip was won by Helen Jett of West Palm Beach. Eddie Blackely of Belle Glade was the winner of a $100 grocery give-away.

The Belle Glade Police Department K-9 Unit performed for the crowd also.

"We felt good this year about the different organizations that helped us this year," Graber said.

Graber said several organizations and businesses donated their time or food for the event, including the local Winn Dixie Store, Pizza Hut and Barney Walker Insurance.

"We didn't make any money, but we did break even," Graber said. "Our first goal is to bring people together," he added.

Lunch tickets were sold on various ethnic foods. Pigeon peas and rice, and rice and beans with a vegetable sauce, both Black American dishes; fried chicken, pizza and hot dogs, American dishes; tacos, a Spanish food; pita bread, falafels and baklava, Mid-Eastern foods and fried plantains, a Haitian contribution.

Larry Schwandz, co-chairman of the event said he felt the Heritage Day was a success. "I think the food was good and the entertainment went well. I believe it was a success," he said.

Farm Bill

tion such as the one that occurred at the end of September, when five of the six Glades area sugar producers forfeited some 154 tons of raw sugar.

"The USDA is required to administer the program correctly and adjust import quotas accordingly," said Yancey.

The bill must now go to a House-Senate negotiating conference after Congress returns from its Thanksgiving-week break to work out differences between the two versions. The House passed its version, which also called for a continuation of the sugar loan program, back on Oct. 8.

Elgin Peltz, president of the Sugar Information Bureau, saw the vote as a stand for jobs and the American sugar farmer.

"The Senate has taken a stand against exporting of the jobs of the American sugar farmer to other parts of the world," said Peltz. "The overwhelming show of support in both Houses of Congress for a fair trade, safety-net program that has benefited American sugar producers and consumers alike since it began in 1981 will keep the sugar industry confident in the economies of 16 states," said Peltz.

"We are especially pleased that the Senate has included a directive to the Administration that the program be administered as originally intended, with no cost to the U.S. Treasury," Peltz concluded.

In addition to the loan program, the bill also calls for disaster payments to sugarcane and soybean farmers who were devastated by recent hurricanes.

The big controversy in the proposed farm bill centers around dairy, wheat and feed grain subsidies, said Yancey.

The agreement would put income subsidies downward path through 1989, a major policy goal of the Reagan administration. It would freeze subsidy rates at current levels next year, cutting them by up to five percent in each of the three following years.

But GOP leaders softened the blow of the 1987 and 1988 cuts by replacing them with an equal value of government-owned surplus commodities.

The concession eased fears of Democratic worried about ripping of the farm safety net. Senate Republican Leader Robert Dole of Kansas called off the marathon bargaining session which stretched to 3:30 a.m. Saturday, opting for private talks to resolve the stymied negotiations.

While the provisions of the Senate bill were designed to be attractive to farm state senators, many could still be eliminated once the bill goes to conference.

"This is by no means the end of the race," said Yancey, "there are still four big hurdles to cross."

The first of course is getting the bill through conference and then getting both the House and Senate to agree with the conference's report. Finally, the president must sign the bill into law.

"We're sure it will go through," said Yancey, "it's just going to be a question of time."

concrete wall, fence or shrubbery. "If you're going to spend that kind of money building an accessory addition, a concrete wall is not that expensive, especially if it keeps customers in the neighborhood satisfied," Burch said.

The primary concern of neighborhood residents is about traffic flowing from the store into their yards, Burch explained.

The only objection to the proposed zoning change came from city fire officials. They are concerned that a 10-foot rear setback requirement in business areas does not provide enough room for fire equipment and that it is not enough room to prevent adjacent buildings from catching on fire.

Mayor Tom Altman said that while the commission should not spend time pondering the various types of barriers, he does want commissioners to review setback requirements in the zoning code to see if changes are required. "It seems this issue comes up again and again when we are dealing with business zoning matters. If there's a weakness in the code, let's deal with it totally and resolve it once and for all," said Altman.

In other business, the commission: •Tabled action on a request from the Glades Area Association for Retarded citizens for money from the city budget to operate its educational and work programs during the coming fiscal year.

City Finance Director Frank Anderson said only about $1,300 remains from $6,000 budgeted for charitable contributions.

"It's unfortunate that these kinds of requests have to be paraded," said Altman. "We have peanuts to go around and so many worthy causes."

The city will reconsider the request at a mid-year budget review when additional funds may be available.

•Gave Harvin approval to execute and submit applications for an Urban Development Action Grant. Harvin said Belle Glade had the distinction of being one of the first cities in to move.

But a decision made by Goggins Monday resolved any dilemma the city might have been facing about what to do with the building. R.D. Santerfeit, a staff member of the city's planning and community development department, said Goggins informed the city that he was willing to work to bring the building up to code. Santerfeit said the city is willing to cooperate with Goggins in the matter.

"I guess the city has a soft spot in its heart for that old building," he said.

Both Santerfeit and Harvin noted that Florida eligible for the grant over a year ago, but was mysteriously dropped from the eligibility list. Just as mysteriously, Harvin said, the city is now back on the list, but must resubmit eligibility requirements.

several groups have inquired about buying the building and preserving it as a museum. All attempts have failed so far through to this point because of a lack of funds.

The city could have faced the decision between preserving or demolishing the landmark had Goggins not agreed to improve it. Either way, Belle Glade saves dollars.

Demolition, Harvin said, would have to have been paid for from community development funds. The $40,000 budgeted for demolition has already been used up, Harvin said, with more projects waiting in the wings.

"We have another $100,000 worth of demolition over and above what we could have done right now, but there just isn't any more money," he said.

So it appears that the city budget, as well as City Hall, has received a reprieve from the wrecking ball.

year, Lennon said, the premium would cost about $600,000.

Under last year's insurance coverage, any future claims that happen during the year would be covered under that policy. That type of coverage costs $300,000 but the new premium calls for over $900,000, prompting the change to self-insurance.

No court judgement has been made since 1979 which cost the hospital money on liability claims, Lennon said. He did say however, that $300,000 in out-of-pocket settlements had been made during that period and legal fees for those cases were about $150,000.

The directors took no action on providing advanced life support (ALS) ambulance service and Lennon told them he still has received no answer to a letter he wrote Atlantic Ambulance Service, Inc. on Oct. 25.

The letter was in response to a request by Atlantic to extend an agreement made in 1983 in which the hospital agreed to provide Atlantic with a paramedic and equipment for ALS service.

Atlantic is under a three-year contract with the county to provide basic life support (BLS) ambulance service to this area.

In the letter, Lennon said that he could not respond to Atlantic's request for an extension on the contract until he had met with the directors.

In the meantime, Atlantic moved out of the quarters provided by the hospital and made a temporary agreement with Everglades Memorial, in which the Pahokee hospital is providing a paramedic for ALS service.

Noting that Atlantic has been billing for ALS all along, Lennon said Tuesday night that he still thinks that Atlantic should either provide the service or the hospital should be paid for the equipment and paramedic.

"I think they should at least pay us the difference between what they collect for BLS and ALS," board member Sandra Chambliss said.

Board members also agreed to reschedule the Dec. 24 meeting to Tuesday, Dec. 10.

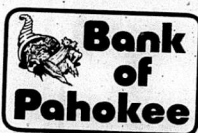

Hello, I'm Tessie Norman
